Hope Publishing House is pleased to announce that in September we will be releasing a remarkable new book, Face to Face: Children of the AIDS Crisis in Africa, by Karen Ande and Ruthann Richter which combines color photography and narrative to document in a most poignant manner the impact of AIDS on children on that continent.

This is a beautiful and moving testament to the youngsters growing up in the shadow of the disease, as well as to those who are mobilizing communities to lift up the lives of these children.

One of the projects highlighted in this book is the work of Quaker missionary Heidi Pidcoke who for the past 6 years has been in Africa and has been influential in helping many young girls in the vast Kibera slums of Nairobi stay in school and deal with the traumas inherent in such surroundings.

For those who would like to help these children as well as own this lovely book, we are currently offering an unusual opportunity:

For a $100 donation, you will receive a copy of this lovely 128-page book as soon as it comes off the press. Of this amount, $70 will qualify as a tax-deductible donation to Hope Projects with all the proceeds going to support children in the Kibera Hamlets project where many of these orphaned children are raising siblings, and to provide trauma-healing workshops.

If you would care to participate in this opportunity to support this project, choose one of these three methods:

- send your $100 check today to Hope Projects, P.O. Box 60008, Pasadena, CA 91106
- go to their website at www.hope-pub.com to pay with a credit card
- call 1-800-326-2671 to make arrangements to receive a copy of this beautiful book

This is an enormously uplifting book. Here are a few comments from leaders in the field who have reviewed it:

One of the most tragic and insidious costs of AIDS is the price paid by children who lose parents, protection and opportunities for the future. These beautiful faces will remind you of children you love. And their stories show what’s possible when we care enough to stand up for them. —Helene D. Gayle MD, MPH, President and CEO, CARE USA

Africa has been blessed and cursed to an extreme. Cursed like Job with disease, habitat destruction, colonial depredations and corrupt governments. Blessed with people of extraordinary resilience and strength. This book showcases both—the curse of HIV and the heartbreaking orphans it has created, and the blessing and inspiration of the children themselves and the heroes who try to save them. This is an immensely moving book. —Robert Sapolsky, PhD, professor of biology, neurology and neurological sciences at Stanford University and author of A Primate’s Memoir.

Face to Face raises awareness and inspires us to action, reminding us that every child deserves the promise of a future. —Kerry Olson, founder and president, Firelight Foundation

We hope to hear from you soon.

Thank you and God bless,
